

The Friends of Linslade Woods, with partners from Central Bedfordshire Council and The Greensand Trust, held a fun dog event in the Woods on Saturday, 11th October. There was a treasure hunt to test the ability of the dogs to sniff out discreetly hidden pieces of sausage

- but shown on a map for the owners to read.

The dogs, large and small, were tested on their obedience - could they walk past a plate of dog treats when they were called? (Most could not!). And there were agility games - hurdles to jump over and tunnels to run through; some dogs just loved showing their athletic skill, but others really couldn't see the point of it all. One owner had to negotiate the tunnel himself before the dog cottoned on to the idea!

It was all great fun for the humans, and the dogs had a good time too, so we hope to have another similar event next year.
